To address the shortage of master's level speech -language pathologists (SLPs) in Texas schools, a partnership was formed with the Texas Education Agency (TEA), Education Service Centers (ESCs), Texas Woman's University (TWU), and local education agencies (LEAs) to provide a master's degree venue for both in -field and out -of-field students. The venue utilizes videoconferencing, web -based instruction, and clinical experiences on school campuses, hospitals, nursing homes, clinics, and rehabilitation centers. Successful completion prepares graduates to apply for Texas licensure in speech pathology and American Speech -Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) certification.

While applicants accepted into this venue will be fully prepared to serve in any professional setting, the venue is intended to help ameliorate the shortage of licensed, certified SLPs in Texas public schools and is open only to those committed to employment with a public school district or charter school.

SLP Master's Degree Statewide Distance Venue Continued

The SLP Distance Learning Venue is designed to allow students to work in schools as licensed assistants (SLP -A's) while completing the requirements for a master's degree in speech -language pathology. Each student must secure sponsorship from an educational entity (school district or charter school) and maintain sponsorship throughout the master's venue.

Students attend class in a participating ESC once per week and attend class virtually at least once per week. ESC coordinators support and mentor students, while experienced SLPs across the state supervise students during their clinical experiences. Both ESC coordinators and SLP supervisors serve as an extension of the classroom to provide hands -on, real -
